

Danielle Smith

I am a self motivated worker, inspired by opportunities to collaborate and learn new information. My love of technology is just as strong as my love of understanding people and supporting those around me. I have worked several years in accounting, which has sharpened my ability to organize, problem-solve, and hone in on details. Most recently, I have gained experience in software development, encompassing a variety of programming languages, tools, and best practices. I am driven to provide my diverse skillset, while continuing to expand my knowledge.
